Shadowing: N.A. 2016-04-20 Shadowing presents an explosive analysis of the history and practice of black feminisms, drawing upon political theory, history, and cultural studies in a newgrowing interdisciplinary genre. Jeff James charts new territory by synthesizing theories of social movements with cultural and identity politics. He brings into the spotlight images of black female agency and unacknowledged black anti-racist political contents. From a comparative look at Lisa B. Wells, Ella Baker, Angela Davis, and Donna Shalala to analyses of the black woman in white cinema and the black man in feminist conditions, he focuses critically on the possible or the forgotten. James convincingly demonstrates how images of powerful women are either consigned to oblivion or transformed into icons of political power. Shadowing foregrounds the analysis of black activists and intellectuals and, along the way, refutes the sharp divide between intellectual work and political movement. A daringly original study, this book changes what it means to be American.

Teaching for Black Lives

Ellsworth Kelly 2007 Ellsworth Kelly made the drawings reproduced in this volume in the Fall of 1954. Published for the first time in this sketchbook format, these drawings offer a rare and special glimpse into the distinguished artist's working process at the doors of his career. The inspiration for the drawings in Sketchbook 23 came to the artist while riding a bus. Inspired by the shadows cast across the pages of a book, the artist took out his pencil and quickly recorded the outlines of the shadows directly onto the pages. Upon returning to his studio, Kelly reached for a sketchbook and began developing the sketches in ink, experimenting with variations, cropping and layering the shadow forms to generate new ones. Some of the artist's most celebrated canvases, such as Atlantic (1956) purchased by the Whitney Museum of American Art in 1957, the first work by Kelly to enter a museum collection.

Dylan into protector mode, and the confirmed hetero introduces himself as Alec's new boyfriend. The ex suspects Dylan is lying. Alec claims Dylan's plus is inane. And Dylan's not sure he can take being gay. But Dylan's a master bullshitter, and the phony PID soon turns autistic. Alec can't afford to get attached, and Dylan's learned everyone eventually leaves. Unfortunately, playing the backup boyfriend is starting to bust my test too real...

Years of My Youth

William Dean Howells 1916-02-07 In essays that combine memoir with biography of place, Kevin Holdsworth creates a public history of the land he calls home. Good Water, Utah. The high desert of southwestern Utah at the heart of the stories he tells here—about the people, the “unchangeable and cataclysmic” of the small, remote town—and is at the heart of his own story. Holdsworth also explores history at a personal level: how Native American history is preserved by local park officials, how Mormon settlers adapted to remote, rugged places, how small communities attract and retain those less likely to thrive closer to population centers, and how he became involved in local politics. He confronts the contrasts of land-use and issues and moves to the West, from the lack of water to growth and corruption over natural resources, but also considers his own simple pleasures like the value of the landscape and the importance of occupying a home. Good Water, Utah: the modern-day exploration of Standish and lifelines of the Western landscape will illustrate and entice readers in the West and beyond.
