A Critical Study of Thailand’s Higher Education Reforms: Rattana Lao

This book offers a critical examination of contemporary higher education reforms in Thailand, drawing on the broader historical, socio-economic, and political changes. Through a qualitative case study with three methods of inquiry, this book explores how different ‘global education policies’ such as privatization, internationalization, and quality assessment (QA) have been redefined in Thailand’s higher education system. Grounded in policy-making and historical research, this book explores the policies’ implementation and impact, identifying the challenges and successes in Thailand’s higher education development. It will also appeal to researchers in Education, particularly to scholars studying education policies within the context of tertiary education. It will also interest scholars specializing in Asian and South-east Asian Studies.

Transformational Education in the Asian Century

This book offers a critical examination of the challenges facing higher education in Asia as well as the national responses of governments in terms of the organization of the sector. This book will appeal to researchers in Education, particularly to scholars studying education policies within the context of tertiary education. It will also interest scholars specializing in Asian and South-east Asian Studies.

Rattana Lao

The book maps out these differences and analyses the country-level policy, political and historical context. As such, it is an important contribution to understanding the evolving landscape of higher education in Asia.

The book is divided into five parts: (1) Educational Reform in the Asian Century; (2) The Rise of Asia’s Knowledge Economy; (3) The Transformational University in Asia; (4) National Strategies for Transformational Education; and (5) Conclusion. Each part is further divided into several chapters, each focusing on a specific aspect of transformational education in Asia. The book concludes with a summary of the main findings and recommendations for future research and policy.

The book’s main argument is that transformational education is a key driver of innovation and change in the Asian higher education sector. It is based on a comprehensive analysis of policy documents, interviews with policymakers and practitioners, and case studies from various countries in Asia. The book provides a coherent and critical analysis of the trends and challenges faced by the education sector, urging policymakers to rethink their approaches.

In conclusion, this book provides a valuable contribution to the study of transformational education in the Asian context. It challenges the traditional models of higher education and argues for a more transformative approach. The book is highly recommended for researchers, policymakers, and practitioners in the field of higher education in Asia.
The governance and Management of Universities 2018 [13] - This volume seeks to identify and explore the dynamics of global forces on the development of higher education in Asia, in particular, how needs-based reforms have affected university governance and management. It includes a set of country-specific studies on how university governance has or has not responded to the demands of the student body, internal and external stakeholders, and policy makers. The focus in the relationship between the state and the universities, which is usually reflected in the degree of autonomy and accountability allowed in a particular higher education system. This volume can be of value to Higher Education Policy Makers, scholars, educators and other stakeholders.

Schooling Selves 2019 - This title brings together a significant body of work on the topic of teachers and lifelong learning. It offers a critical analysis of the ways in which teachers engage in and with lifelong learning, and examines the implications for policy and practice. It explores how teachers can be agents of change in their own practice, and how they can influence educational policy and practice on a broader scale.

Thailand’s Inequality 2013 [13] - Thailand’s inequality has reached an all-time high, with the gap between the rich and poor widening. This book offers a comprehensive analysis of the factors contributing to this inequality, including economic, political, and social factors. It also explores the implications of these trends for Thailand’s future, and suggests possible solutions for addressing the issue.

Access, Equity and Quality by Hena Mukherjee, Jasbir S. Singh, Rozilini M. Fernandez-Chung and T. Marimuthu 2019 - This volume examines the impact of neoliberal reforms on higher education in Asia, focusing on how these reforms have affected access, equity, and quality. It provides case studies from countries such as Thailand, Malaysia, and Singapore, and offers recommendations for policymakers and educational stakeholders.

Lifelong Learning Policy in Thailand’s Higher Education 2020 - This book explores the challenges and opportunities of lifelong learning in Thailand, and discusses the role of universities in promoting lifelong learning. It examines the policy frameworks and strategies that have been developed, and provides recommendations for the future.

Changing Borders 2017 - This book explores the changing landscape of higher education in Southeast Asia, and the implications for students and policymakers. It examines the impact of globalization on higher education, and discusses the challenges of accessing higher education in a region where economic, political, and social barriers remain.

Wisdom, Knowledge, and the Postcolonial University in Thailand 2016 - This book offers a critical analysis of the ways in which the Thai university system has been shaped by colonial and postcolonial influences. It explores the impact of these influences on the development of Thai higher education, and examines the ways in which the university system is responding to these challenges.

Clean Energy and Resources Recovery 2022 - This book provides a comprehensive overview of the technological options for energy and resources recovery from all types of organic wastes. It addresses the challenges and opportunities of biorefinery systems, and provides a global overview of biomass waste production and management.

Changing Borders: Reportage from Our Mekong 2014 - This book contains the work produced by 21 journalists from Cambodia, China, Laos, Thailand, Myanmar and Vietnam as part of their fellowship under the sixth cycle of the Imaging Our Mekong media programme. It captures the complex interplay between the region's rich history and its dynamic future.

Democratizing Health Care 2019 - This book examines the economic decisions women make throughout their working lives, and how these decisions are influenced by cultural, social, and economic factors. It discusses the implications of reform over the past 50 years, and makes an important contribution to research and policy.

Global Education for and beyond the Sustainable Development Goals 2020 - This book examines the role of higher education in supporting the Sustainable Development Goals, and explores how universities can contribute to achieving these goals. It offers case studies from countries around the world, and provides recommendations for policymakers and educational stakeholders.

Free Traders 2021 - This book provides a critical analysis of the rise of free trade and its impact on the world economy. It examines the political and economic factors that have led to the rise of free trade, and discusses the challenges and opportunities that it presents for policymakers and businesses.

Education and Globalization in Southeast Asia 2016 - This book offers a comprehensive overview of the ways in which education is being redefined in Southeast Asia, and the implications for students and policymakers. It examines the impact of globalization on education, and discusses the challenges and opportunities that it presents for policymakers and educational stakeholders.
We come up with the money for you this proper as capability as easy exaggeration to get them all. We give rattana lao and numerous ebook collections from fictions to scientific research in any way, accompanied by them in this rattana lao that can be your partner.